How many base station sites are there in Rome

Overview

How many military bases are in Italy?

Italy currently has one air base, three Army bases, and two Navy bases. These bases range in history with founding dates between 1911 and 2013, as well as purpose, with missions that include combat, airborne, support, engineering, and more. Each of the US military bases in Italy is outlined below.

When did military bases start in Italy?

The first military bases established in Italy were those of the United States after the signing of the Marshall Plan agreements in 1948, aimed at reconstructing Europe after the devastation of World War II. Meanwhile, NATO military bases have been located in Italy since 1949, the year the North Atlantic Treaty was signed.

What are the major military sites in Italy?

Military sites in Italy include naval bases, air force bases, army garrisons, training areas, and headquarters. Key locations include La Spezia and Taranto for naval operations, Aviano and Amendola for air force activities, and various army bases concentrated in the northeast and central regions.

How many NATO bases are in Italy?

In reality, as we learn from other sources, it is not so simple to quantify the number of NATO bases in Italy. In 2013 the bases with a US presence in Italy were 59, as of today in 2024 those officially declared are 120. Not all of these, however, are Nato military bases. There are, in fact, four different types of structures:
